IN THE SPECIFICATION:

Application EP-A-775 483 from L'Oréal discloses liquid lipstick compositions comprising a continuous aqueous medium including a polymer dispersion capable of forming a continuous, glossy and "transfer-free" film on the lips. Unfortunately, these compositions result in a film on the lips, continually in movement, which is uncomfortable and which confers a feeling of tautness. In addition, it is very difficult to introduce pigments into these compositions [with] without destabilizing them.

Please delete page 7, line 24, through page 8, line 8, and replace with:

[More specifically, a] One subject matter of the invention is a structured composition comprising at least one liquid fatty phase comprising at least one volatile solvent, the liquid fatty phase being structured by at least one polymer with a weight-average molecular mass of less than or equal to 100 000 comprising a) a polymer backbone having hydrocarbonaceous repeat units provided with at least one heteroatom and b) at least one optionally functionalized pendant and/or end fatty chain having from 6 to 120 carbon atoms which is bonded to these hydrocarbonaceous repeat units, the liquid fatty phase and the polymer forming a physiologically acceptable medium.
